BERRY BULLETIN.

A Timely Warning as to June Treatment of Small Fruits.

Fruits and vegetables are composed mostly of water. No component part of same is so plentiful, yet so difficult to supply in proper quantity. The fruit grower should then know how to guard against seasons of drouth and preserve the natural moisture of the soil. This can be done in two ways.

First—By irrigation, which is practicable only in certain favored localities by ditches and canals and by various pumping devices, pipes and drains, necessarily limited in extent, and then only with considerable expense. Success by these methods requires about 1,000 barrels of water per acre for each application.

Second—By retaining moisture already in the soil by mulching. This may be practiced by all. Well prepared ground receives sufficient moisture in spring to fully mature the largest crop. Tons of moisture from every acre are escaping daily in the growing season. The best and most practical way to preserve this moisture and place it just where it is most available for plant use is by frequent shallow cultivation, forming a fine earth mulch. This applies to gardens and all hoed crops. Where soil cannot all be cultivated, as with small fruits, then use manure, leaves, straw, clover, marsh hay, or any material to shade the ground and retard evaporation. With coarse mulch close around fruit plants, and a fine earth mulch between the rows, large crops may be carried safely through severe drouths. Commence at once and continue until products are mature.

The new strawberry plant should not be allowed to bear fruit the first season. Pick off all fruit stems as soon as they appear. Three methods of training the strawberry are in use. The hill system, where all runners are removed; the narrow row, where only part of new runners are allowed to form plant; and the full matted row, where plants are allowed to fill all the space excepting a narrow path between rows. All have advocates, and all have special merits, depending on soil, climate, variety and grower. The full matted row is most used, being easiest to manage.

Guard against too many plants in small space. They consume moisture, suffer from drouth and produce small berries. Each plant should have from four to six inches square space in which to grow and mature its fruits. When new canes of the raspberries and blackberries are 15 to 18 inches high, pinch off the top about three inches. This will cause side branches to grow, making well formed bushes and greatly increase the bearing surface of the canes. M. A. THAYER.

MISREPRESENTATIONS.

MR. EDITOR—My attention has been called to an issue of the Napanee Star of June 19th, in which an editorial refers to me as, "ragling for the McCarthyite nomination, and "letters can be produced to settle that question" all of which is a pure fabrication.

So far from having desired Mr. McCarthy's endorsement it was offered me, and with due defence to Mr. McCarthy, I declined the honor, because it would be a violation of the first principle of Potronism, to affiliate myself solidly with Mr. McCarthy, or either of the old parties. Although appreciating McCarthyism at its full value, I regard our principles as quite superior.

When he arrived in Napanee Mr. Haycock and I were advised, and urged, to see him by some of his admirers, and we met him in the corridor of the hotel, and were invited to his room. He asked me "why I could not come out as his supporter, his follower, etc., and I declined for the reasons already given. He replied "think it over and return at seven o'clock and let me know your final decision." Mr. Haycock returned by my instruction at the appointed time, and informed him our first decision was final, and I think it fortunate that Mr. Haycock was with me and can verify the truth of what I affirm, and this is called "angling for the McCarthy endorsement."

By the way, Mr. Editor, some one about the office of your contemporary appears to be troubled with too vivid an imagination to be strictly accurate concerning matters political. Surely neither the venerable editor nor the astute proprietor could be guilty of such vagaries. Possibly the printer's devil may have found his way into the editorial sanctum unobserved and thus plays havoc with his masters' best interests. E. B. SWITZER.

A Matter of Necessity.

"Look here, Potter" demanded the able editor of the Hawville Clarion, addressing Dr. Potter, the urbane Coroner and likewise the proprietor of the Early Bird ice cream parlor: "What under the sun caused you fellows to bring in a verdict of 'death from unknown causes,' in the case of young Pettifish, whom everybody knows proposed to Miss Pearl Kinsabby in her mother's kitchen, which so offended the high-spirited young lady, who was already engaged to another gentleman, that she caught up a saucepan of boiling water from the stove and turned it wrong side up on his head, whereat he uttered a fiendish yell and plunged headlong through the window without asking to be excused or stopping to open the window, and either caused his own death by cutting his throat on the broken glass or by breaking his neck over the saw-buck which stood on the ground under the window and upon which he fell, or by a combination of both? I don't see how in the name of wonder the jury could make 'unknown causes' out of that."

"We considered that that was the best we could do under the circumstances," replied the Coroner, cheerily. "You see, the only blanks for filling in with the verdict we had left were for death from unknown causes or by shooting by an officer in discharge of his duty, and as we all liked the young fellow pretty well, we just drew straws to see which it would be, and the unknown causes won. We didn't have, and never have had, any blanks about hot water on the head or cutting the throat with window glass or breaking the neck on saw-bucks, and so it looks to me as if we did pretty middling well under the circumstances."

present the guests of Mrs. Wilmot Hawley. Crops look promising with the exception of hay, which will be light.

The classic precinct known in former days as the Devil's Elbow, but now called by the now euphonious name of Dorland has very much improved in its moral tone. Thanks to the leaders who so strenuously and successfully fought against licensing of any place in the township for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Mr. Wilmot Hawley will give the garden party of the season, on Friday evening July 10. A good program is being prepared consisting of foreign and local talent. Admission only 15c.

This place enjoyed a fine rain Sunday afternoon which was very acceptable. The water in the bay is about zero.

BATH.

Dominion day was celebrated by our townspeople in different ways. Some taking advantage of the Str. America on her trip to Belleville, others going to Napanee, while a good many of our young people held a picnic at Mill Haven.

Mr. Soaper of Picton has decided to erect an evaporator here.

The schr. Emery brought in a load of coal, and the schr. Laura D. a load of lumber for D. W. Ball last week.

The tug Thistle reported on June 30th. We were glad to see her genial captain in our midst again.

The yacht Jessie Forward is gathering fish for the Bath Fish company.

Quite a number of boarders have arrived at Bay View Cottage, the hotels are also receiving their share.

Mrs. John Hogle has left for a few weeks visit to her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Green.

Messrs. J. Collins and Messrs. Fred and Will Burley of Rochester are spending their holidays with friends in Bath.

Mr. J. M. Wemp has left to take a situation in New York.

We are pleased to report Mr. D. Forward improving in health.

Mr. Fred Wiskin is confined to his house through illness.

We regret to learn that the residence owned by Mr. J. Hogle on Island Dale, Ernestown, was burned on June 29th, loss only half covered by insurance.

DENBIGH.

We were favoured with a few more good showers of rain yesterday and the prospects for a good crop of grain at least are improving, though in some places the grasshoppers have made great havoc in grain fields and meadows.

Rev's G. Brackenbush, of Eganville, and J. Henkel, of Green Lake Renfrew Co. favoured Denbigh with a call and were the guests of Rev. F. W. Sdenneider, of this village on their return from the annual sessions of the Lutheran Synod of Canada held at Hamilton Ont.

The number of young ladies of the village has been added to by the return of Miss Annie Petz lid, from Eganville and the arrival of Miss Frieda Sdenneider, Stenbenville O., who is going to stay with her brother, the Rev. F. W. Sdenneider, of this place.

A public exam. was held at our village school on Friday last. A number of visitors were present who without exception expressed themselves very well satisfied with the performances of the pupils and the progress they have made under the teaching of our present teacher, Mr. Herbert Gage.

The Rev. H. Shephard, who has succeeded in making many friends here is going to leave us and is succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Wagg, late of Omphah, who has at present taken up his quarters at the Chateau House.

Statute Labour and other roadwork is now the order of the day.

What a Plowman Needs

It requires not only a good eye in the teamster, but a strong, active team to do good work in marking out furrows and making straight rows across a field. If the team is not strong enough for the work, it will dodge from one side to another in order to relieve the excessive strain on its shoulders. This will make absolutely straight rows impossible, no matter how correct the eye of the plowman may be. The first furrow across the field is harder on the team than any later one, especially if the field be in sod. After it is cut each after furrow requires less lifting to turn it over, as on the plow side there is an open furrow instead of an unbroken sod, so that only one slice of the soil has to be cut. But the first furrow for this reason should be shallower than those that follow it. This will make less of a ridge where it lies.

A NASTY TONGUE

Is Proof Positive That You Are in Danger

Thousands Die Each Year From Liver Trouble.

Paine's Celery Compound

Promptly Cures This Insidious Disease.

The liver is the great housekeeper of our health. On its right and proper action depends our enjoyments of life.

One of the simplest indications of a disordered and diseased liver is a nasty tongue—furred and coated. The coated tongue is proof positive that your liver is not working well. Other symptoms are as follows: nauseous taste in the mouth, pains under the shoulder blades, and in the region of the kidneys. The mental symptoms of liver trouble are often far worse than the bodily ills. Sufferers experience mental anguish, gloomy forebodings, melancholy, and a general feeling of disgust with life. When these bodily and mental troubles are experienced, your liver tells you it wants help. If help is not given at once, sickness and death must result.

Thousands have found Paine's Celery Compound a sure and certain cure for liver disease. It always acts promptly on the great nervous system and restores that healthy and natural action that the liver must have, at all times. Paine's Celery Compound drives from the system all the poisons that have accumulated, and the sick one regains his old-time vim and energy; the muscles and tissues are made hard and firm, the skin clear and fresh, so that perfect health is the result.

Read this letter written by Mrs. George Durant, of Elms, Ont. No stronger proof can be given of the virtues and powers of Paine's Celery Compound in the cure of liver troubles:

"For many years I have been a sufferer from liver troubles, and have doctored with several physicians, but only found relief for a very short time. My husband advised me to try your Paine's Celery Compound. I did so, and found so much relief from the first bottle that I continued, and I am now using the third bottle. Your Compound has done more for me than any physician. For months before using the Compound I never had one night of sound sleep; but now I can go to bed and sleep soundly and naturally, and feel like a new creature in the morning."

The Nananee Express

NANANEE, FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1896.

LISTEN to the following from the Kingston News: "The diabolical scheme has succeeded, and Mr. Pettet defeats Mr. Boulter by a majority of 199." Language is inadequate to do justice to the scheme. It was the same "diabolical scheme" that defeated the Government of Sir Charles Tupper—the ballots of the free and independent electors of Canada.

It will be a safe plan for the Liberals to put on the free list all articles which compete with combine products. Whenever a concern by shutting up and turning out its men schemes to produce artificial scarcity and dearth, or to bulldoze parliament, that hour the classes of goods it produces ought to be placed on the free list. We want plenty in this country—plenty of cheap goods and plenty of work making them.—Ex.

If the honest expression of the electorate of Lennox was defeated by the free and corrupt use of money steps should at once be taken to protest Mr. Wilson's election. It is freely asserted that Mr. Wilson's agents had resort to bribery to ensure his election and that it was the distribution of the boodle that turned the tide in his favor. If an investigation establishes the truth of these rumors no pains or expense should be spared to unseat Mr. Wilson, and bring the work home to the guilty ones. In a straight fight we believe the Liberals could carry Lennox with an overwhelming majority.

SINCE the rout of the Conservative party Tory newspapers have been industriously preaching blue ruin and showing their patriotism by appeals to racial prejudices. The renegade Mail has raised the race cry and

SALAD MAKING.

Success Attends Only Those Who Use
Brains in the Composition.

The proper dressing for a chicken salad is not suitable for vegetables. A French dressing, with slight variations, may be used on a great many different vegetables. For two heads of lettuce mix in a cup one saladspoonful of the best larragon vinegar, an even half teaspoonful of salt, a scant half spoonful of white pepper. Never mix salt and pepper with oil, because the salt does not dissolve, and will give a gritty taste to the salad. Break up the head of lettuce, remove the green leaves and use only the crisp bleached leaves. Tear the large leaves in pieces. Wash them all in cold water. Drain them carefully in a wire salad basket (a flour sieve will do). When the leaves are freed from water, set them on the ice to become chilled for fifteen or twenty minutes, or until you are ready to serve the salad. Pour over the salad, at the table, a saladspoonful and a half of the best olive oil. Toss the leaves until they are thoroughly coated; then pour over them the vinegar, salt and pepper and toss again very carefully.

Great care must be exercised in purchasing oil, as much of the oil sold at groceries is unfit for use. Only the best oil of the olive will do for salad. Do not allow anybody to persuade you that cottonseed oil, or any other product of doubtful origin will do. Purchase the best oil of a trustworthy dealer, and if you are fond of salads, buy it by the gallon at this season of the year and keep it in a cold store-room, bringing only a small quantity out at a time. It is not safe to keep a large bottle of it in a warm dining room, or in a dining room pantry, as it is likely to spoil before it can be used up.

The success of a lettuce salad depends on selection of a tender, well bleached head of lettuce; on proper preparation of the leaves in washing, drying and chilling them, so that they come to the table crisp and cold; and on the use of the best ingredients. Omission of one thing prescribed in the preparation will make it a failure. This is the reason why the salad is so seldom what it should be.

If you desire to omit the oil, substitute three tablespoonfuls of thick, sweet cream for it, and prepare the salad otherwise in the same way. This salad may be varied by preparing it from one head of lettuce and two firm, red tomatoes, peeled, chilled and cut in slices. Sometimes two hard-boiled eggs are sliced and added to a plain salad of lettuce.

Two heads of firm white celery, washed and cut in square lengths, drained carefully and chilled, make a delicious salad to serve with game. It is dressed like a lettuce salad. As a change, a clove of garlic, sprinkled with a little salt, is sometimes peeled and rubbed vigorously on the sides of the salad bowl before the salad is put in. This gives all the flavor of garlic necessary. It is an excellent addition to an escarole salad. The escarole is a species of chichory, with broad, flat, bleached leaves that comes to market in winter. It is a bleacher herb raised in cellars and must be handled carefully to prevent its wilting and becoming soft. Cut off the root if it is on the bunch. Do not wash the leaves unless they are very sandy, but wipe each one off very carefully. Cut off the green portion of the leaf. A pair of scissors is most convenient for the purpose. Chill the leaves and dress them with the French dressing used for lettuce.—Philadelphia Times.

Shrewdness of a well-known City Merchant.

HE KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR HIM.

In winter when Canadians spend a large portion of their time indoors and cannot have the same variety of fresh food as in summer and fall, indigestion and dyspepsia afflict a majority. "If anybody will tell me that dyspepsia in its advanced stages is perfectly curable," said a Toronto merchant, "I will take his word. Personally I run no risks. As soon as I feel a sense of weight in the stomach, after a meal, I know that my blood is sluggish in circulation. In my business I cannot take much exercise, and I fight the first sign of stomach troubles with Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never failed me, and has saved me many a doctor's bill."

Scott's Sarsaparilla possesses medicinal properties superior to all other so-called sarsaparillas made. As a remedy for indigestion, rheumatism, pimples, scrofula and all blood diseases, physicians state that its equal was never known. Sold at $1 per bottle, of all dealers.

THE LATEST SUMMER GOWNS.

New and striking effects in the way of cotton gowns always appear after the first of June. New cotton crepes, organdies, dimities and piques delight the eyes of everyone able to wear cotton gowns. I say "able," for many women from climate, health or occupation are debarred from wearing any but woolen gowns. Even heavy Irish linen has been taken for midsummer wear, and gold lace appears on grass linen. Nothing seems incongruous; Every possible combination of material and color is before us.

So much silk is mixed with the finer qualities of cotton dress goods that the material is quite suitable for wear on very dressy occasions; the trimmings, too, which are of ribbon, and fine open work embroidery, very elaborate.

The linen suits referred to are given a tailor-made look by stitched glass straps, an inch wide before running them under, down every seam of the coat, which has a godet or fluted back, about four inches long, and loose fronts fully seven inches below the waist-line; these also have very large revers of the material doubled and stitched twice on the edge to correspond with the wrists and lower part of the coat. A belt of linen, gold ribbon or white leather is worn outside of the back, passed through slits in the sides and buckles in front. The sleeves are very large, yet, of course, are unlined. The skirt is unlined, has a hem ten inches deep, is six yards wide and laid in a loose box-pleat in front. White Japanese silk or nainsook shirt waists are to be worn with such suits, a plastron of dotted Swiss trimmed with yellow Valenciennes lace, or a white wool sweater made with the rolled collar band, the lower part being touched inside of the skirt.

Pique, duck and linen should be shrunk before making up. Duck suits have the little coats described above, and also the blouse coat cut like a loose seque, belted and the fronts allowed to drop over the waist-line. All seams are strapped, and the edges are finished with two rows of stitching. Duck this season is of a very fine, smooth, even weave. Sleeveless vests or loose plastrons also, crush collars of light Persian and pretty with these coat suits. The pretty little figure a striped pique or a blazer of the Paisley base back, of cotton and of fur of mutton, Canada for are strapped, an across the back, a lamp behind out plastron can market per. The skirt will be of a hoarse. The seams on each a good. Lovely light shades of Grits at 75 cents a yard, and on

Mail has raised the race cry and parrot like the smaller fry have taken it up and are conducting a crusade against the French Canadians and warning the English speaking people against French domination. The Kingston News on Monday, following in the wake of the Mail, had a lengthy editorial in which the following occurred: "Mercier is dead, but his spirit is marching on. His fellow-budders are soon to be entrenched in power at Ottawa, and the latter-day revival of his "National" movement must be reflected in any Cabinet Mr. Laurier can form. Now that the French mind is inflamed with dreams of racial glory, English speaking Liberals must beware what they say." What the English speaking Liberals and all true Canadians must beware of is crafty demagogues who in an attempt to gain place and power endeavor to inflame the passions of the people by appeals to racial feelings. Mercier is dead. He was punished for his misdeeds by the Liberals of Quebec. The punishment meted out to Mercier is in direct contrast to the reception accorded Chapleau, Langvin, Caron, McGreevy and others, by the Conservative party. The French Canadians of Quebec have risen superior to the dictates of the clerical lash and refused to support the arch boggler Tupper and his policy of coercion. Mr. Laurier is a high minded statesman and loyal to the British crown. He looks to England for his ideals and is first of all a Canadian. The people of Canada look to him to unravel the tangles of 18 years of misrule. The people have faith in his ability and patriotism. The racial cry will prove as impotent to effect his defeat as the sectarian appeal of the Hierarchy of Quebec. Canada has nothing to fear from French domination and those who are raising this dangerous cry are doing much to retard the progress and unity of Canada. The words of the famous French prelate, that "the last shot for British rule in America will be fired from the citadel of Quebec by a French Canadian" stands good to-day. Frenchmen know well that they are assured of greater freedom under the British flag than under the tri-color of La Belle France. The desire of the French Canadians to build up a French nationality on the banks of the St. Lawrence exists only in the imagination of chagrined and defeated Tory politicians. Under the guidance of the Hon. Wilfred Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat Canada will develop into a homogeneous, prosperous and happy country.

A curious petition was presented to the House of Commons the other day. It is from an Indian, who describes himself as "one of the most miserable of Her Majesty's subjects." This petitioner does not want in any way to interfere with the legislation of Parliament. All he prays for is that Her Majesty's dutiful Commons "shall be pleased to subscribe one shilling each, which may be handed over to your humble petitioner."

A correspondent of the Boston Transcript says that Australia is a paradise for tramps. They comprise about one-quarter of the population, and spend their life in traveling from one little colony or "station," as it is called, to another. The name "sundowner" is applied to them for the reason that the sun's setting is a signal for their coming. The "stations" being so far apart—twenty or thirty miles, or even more—the people have not the heart to send them adrift in the bush, to go hungry for the night, and they are recognized as a necessary evil. The well-to-do farmers have usually a "travelers' hut," and regular rations are served out to these wayfarers, a pound of the inevitable mutton a pannikin or dipper of flour, the water bag refilled and a bunk for the night.

Indeed! That's news! (I must make a note of all they say for some poet to quote).
"The Young Lord April and Lady May Met in the woods and kissed to-day."
"A mocking bird heard the kiss and made A song just like it, so it is said; And listening to that tell tale bird The sap in the oldest tree was stirred."
"The naked boughs into green leaves slipped— The longing buds unto flowers tripped— The little hills smiled as if they were glad, The little rills ran as if they were mad."
"There was green on the earth and blue in the sky, The chrysalis changed to a butterfly, And our lovers, the honey-bees, all a-hum, To hunt for our hearts began to come."
"All the woods are a-thrill with life and love, From the proud old cock to the cooling dove, And all because of that tell-tale bird, Who set to music the kiss he heard."

Dishwashing Hints.

There are a few points about dishwashing which should always be kept in mind. Do not drop knives into hot water, as it injures the handles and removes the cement. Heavy glasses should not be dropped in hot water. Thin glasses are less likely to break, and almost any glass may be saved from breaking if a teaspoon is placed in it before hot water is added.

A "Bain-Marie."

It is useless to attempt to serve dishes at the proper temperature without the aid of a "bain-marie." This is simply a large pan filled with hot water, into which the small pans and saucepans may be set to keep warm until they are wanted. An improvisation of the bain-marie may be set up in any kitchen and will be found of great service.

The very light tints of pique are worn with a turned-over collar of grass linen, with ribbon band and bow the color of the pique.

Ginghams are sold at from 10 to 75 cents a yard, and the occasions for their use are as varied as the prices. They are mixed with dots, tiny stripes, rings and small figures of silk, and show white and light-colored grounds, which afford the keynote of color for the ribbons, many of which are put upon these dainty and washable gowns. The fine or warp-printed ginghams at 50 cents really resemble silk in their figured and striped floral and Oriental designs. They are pretty for misses and ladies, and are to be worn for all, except the very dressiest evening occasions during the summer. The useful plaid, striped and checked ginghams remain the favorite morning or home dresses.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Use of Fruits.

Berries do not agree with many persons, because the seeds tend to forming irritating masses in the intestines. Grapes are one of the most complete of all foods. Most people can use bananas—always eaten as food, not as an extra. Oranges and lemons and grapefruits are invaluable, both as tonic and as food. Cherries are our best northern acid for summer; currants are almost as good. Every family should have a few currant bushes and a few sour cherry trees. Tomatoes are better than cologne, and should be used for the liver. Begin with pie-plant, and never be without vegetable acids all the year. Take care of your own apple supply before you look for a market.

Salt Water for the Complexion.

Salt water is invigorating at all seasons of the year, and salt water baths, which may easily be managed at home, are an excellent remedy for drooping spirits and tired frame, as well as a direct means of obtaining a clear, white skin.

TO THE MARK.

In all diseases that affect humanity there is some weak link in the chain of health, some spot that is the seat of the trouble. It may be the liver, it may be the stomach; perhaps it is the bowels or the kidneys; most likely it is the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters goes straight to that spot, strengthens the weak link in the chain, removes the cause of the disease, and restores health, because it acts with cleansing force and curative power upon the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood.

With good red blood health is assured, without it disease is certain to come and Burdock

UNIQUE SYSTEM OF MANAGING THE CHILDREN.

What the Family Dressmaker Saw in One Home—The Great Contrast It Furnished to Most Others That She Worked in From Time to Time.

My business takes me into all sorts of homes, for I go out sewing by the day, but if there is one place I steer clear of, if it is a moral possibility, it is the house where there are children. Ten to one I go home every night from one of these homes with a racking headache, a temper all kinks and snarls, and a heartfelt thanksgiving that I'm an old maid with one quiet corner away from the rest of the noisy world. Yesterday, however, I found a home where I wouldn't be unwilling to sew all a lifetime. When this woman came and asked me to work two weeks for her she explained that she had six children who needed clothing made. That made me gasp. I was sewing then at a house where two urchins made my life a misery.

But I hadn't many engagements ahead so—I went, and before I left at night, I was wishing that home was mine. Yet they're what some folks would call poor, for the mother has to do all the work with only a 14-year-old girl to help. She's a rare manager, a rare governor, and the sweetest, sunniest-tempered creature above earth. I'll just tell you some of the schemes she has to bring up her little ones the delight they are instead of a torment. She doesn't possess a switch, a strap or a ruler, and I don't believe any of these youngsters understand what a spanking means. Mother to them is the dearest, loveliest, kindest soul, somebody they take care of and try to please in every way. There is only one parlor in the house, the dining room was once the kitchen, with a clean tidy kitchen made out in the shed, while the best room in the house, a room that every other woman would have converted into a parlor, isn't fixed up with hair wreaths, glass shades and haircloth furniture, but it is just the children's room. The sunshine comes pouring in there. A warm, bright rag carpet covers the floor, and there's a wide, springy lounge made from a cot-bed and blue denim, bright pictures on the walls, and toys of every sort, most of them homemade. One thing I noticed is a slate and pencil hung by the mantel, which the mother tells me is her right hand aid in training her children. There are six names on it, painted over debt and credit spaces, and here's how it works:

ABOUT THE LIVER.

A lazy, slow or torpid liver influences the whole system, causing biliousness, sick headache, sallow complexion, languor and gulliness. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the liver, purifies the secretions and cures all forms of liver troubles. We say so and here is the proof: I hereby wish to thank you for the great benefit derived by me from your Burdock Blood Bitters. For three years I was troubled with liver complaint and tried everything to no purpose. I had almost given up hope until one day I determined to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I can now say that marked improvement resulted from the use of the first bottle and at the end of the sixth bottle I discontinued its use, being completely cured.

GREEN BONES AS POULTRY FOOD.

An Excellent Article That Seems to Be Conclusive of Its Value.

Is green bone a profitable food with which to feed poultry? This is the question I want answered. We think it is, and our reasons are that hens fed on green bones will lay a larger percentage of eggs than they would if not fed the bone. A larger number of the eggs will be fertile; the chickens hatched from eggs laid by hens that were not fed green bones, especially if these are winter eggs or your fowls are confined in yards. Why so? Because the composition of bone contains nearly all the elements of an egg, which is pro-positive. Here is bone analysis:

The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steel casing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wherever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant. The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar. The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

Drevenstedt says: "An egg is concentrated food weighing one and one-half ounces, composed of lime, soda, sulphur, iron, phosphorus, magnesia, oil and albumen, which are nearly all found in the composition of green bone. So if we feed the hen it we supply her with the proper materials with which to make eggs, for the hen is the mill, the crop is the hopper, the egg the grist. Every particle of the egg, yolk, albumen and shell, come from the assimilated food through the blood cells. If we feed fat and heat-forming foods there cannot follow the largest egg production." Whatever the appetite of a healthy hen craves is lacking in her food.

Fed two to three times a week, or just a very little each day, it certainly is a healthful, egg-producing, tissue-forming food, insuring rapid and great growth of chicks, and taking the place, in great measure, of the bug and insect meat fowls obtain in the natural state. It should not, understand, be forced upon them too largely, as confined fowls need coarse food, such as grass or clover as surely as they do grain and flesh, else looseness of bowels, torpid liver, indigestion and other evils must ensue.

Fowls running at large also need meat if they have but dry, grasshopperless, bugless, wormless feeding grounds. How does the chicken eat when given access to all kinds of food, at liberty? a bug or two, a few nips of green stuff, then a few kernels of grain, a sip of water now and then, and off it goes after an insect; now a scratch for one or two worms, and some seeds, a few more beakfuls of grass or weed, and it is off for a bath in the dusting place. The nearer the breeder can duplicate this natural, little-at-a-time method of feeding, with his yarded fowls, so much the nearer will he come to realizing profit on his investment and pleasure for his pains.—Farm News.

Weaning the Chicks.

It is usually very desirable for a hen to wean chickens when about four weeks old. Hens usually carry chickens until seven or eight weeks old, but if a warm roosting place is provided, a chicken is sufficiently strong to leave the hen when four weeks old, and it is to the interest of the poultry raiser to get the hens to laying again as soon as possible. If a hen shows no sign of weaning her chickens when four weeks old, one can wean them very easily by keeping them away from the hen a few days. I have always found it advisable to let the hen wean her chickens herself, which she will invariably do when they are about four weeks old, if she is placed on the same diet as the laying hens, as soon as she hatches, for as a rule hens wean their chickens as soon as they go back to laying, and if one will give plenty of meat and other egg-producing food, hens will resume laying and wean their chickens within four weeks after they hatch, and sometimes earlier.

As soon as the chicks are weaned they should be watched very closely and not allowed to wander off in the early mornings, or sleep in filthy places at night, for they are more subjected to diseases—such as sore head and roup—as they grow older than when young. During the spring months small chickens can roost out in the open air in the south, but in the north where the atmosphere is very chilly it is best to have a small house, with a small stove, and all weaned chickens should be made to roost in it until the weather gets warm, when we think it best to let them roost out in the fresh air.—Farm and Home.

The Arabs have a superstition that the stork has a human heart. When one of these birds builds its nest on a house-top, they believe the happiness of that household is insured for a year.

INJURIOUS INSECTS.

Entomologist James Fletcher of Ottawa on the June Varieties.

The month of June is not only the season when all vegetation seems to make a sudden rush forward to maturity, but also the month when insects of all kinds are most noticeable. The fruit grower and farmer must be at work early and late if he would successfully prevent injury to his crops by his insect enemies. Fruit trees must be sprayed with Bordeaux mixture and Paris green if fungous diseases and leaf-eating insects are to be kept in check.

Early in June, in most parts of Canada, the young emerge from beneath the old scales of the oyster shell bark-louse of the apple, and this injurious pest can be easily destroyed at that time if the trees be thoroughly sprayed with a kerosene emulsion wash made by diluting the ordinary stock emulsion with nine parts of water.

Spraying fruit trees is now so generally practised by progressive fruit growers that it is unnecessary to devote much space to pointing out the benefits of this operation. It has been shown by many experiments the extraordinary advantage which follows the spraying of apple trees with Paris green, 1 lb., fresh lime, 1 lb., and water, 200 gallons, to prevent injury by the codling moth. This spraying must be done within a few days after the blossoms fall. The same mixture sprayed over plum and peach trees prevents to a large measure injury by the plum curculio. Another pest of the apple orchard, which may be successfully treated by spraying with Paris green in June, is the cankerworm, the green or brown caterpillars of which sometimes strip whole orchards of almost every leaf, leaving the trees brown and sere as though scorched with fire.

The second brood of the imported currant worm appears during this month, and a close watch must be kept so as to treat the gooseberry and currant bushes with hellebore as soon as the caterpillars show themselves. For the first brood, which appears in May, Paris green may be used, but for the second brood, which comes when the fruit is almost full-grown, this poison is too dangerous, and hellebore must be used. This latter is a vegetable poison and soon loses its virulence when once wetted, either when applied in water or when moistened two or three times by the dew. The injury to currant bushes consequent on allowing them to be stripped of their leaves is not confined to the year when this injury is done, but bushes stripped one year only produce small and inferior fruit the following season.

In the vegetable garden the most troublesome June pests in all parts of the Dominion are certainly the many kinds of cutworms. These are dull-colored, smooth, greasy-looking caterpillars. The head is smooth and shining and sometimes of a different color from the rest of the body. They do their injuries at night time, and lie hid by day beneath the soil; frequently much harm has been done before they were observed. When these caterpillars change to the grubs, and even the grubs are colored in habits of most insects, and are probably as follows are laid by the female

MAKE THE HOME A BLESSING.

The Love of Children is innate in the Heart of every True Man and Woman.

All that is beautiful and lovely in woman, finds its climax in motherhood. How often we find among our American women that longing for the prattling voice, the idol of their waiting hearts. It is a natural instinct, this yearning of the heart for offspring; yet the wife hesitates to talk with the family physician on this delicate subject. A good way to do is to send for "The People's Medical Adviser," 1000 pages, profusely illustrated (wood-cuts and colored plates). Sent for 31 cents in stamps, to prepay postage and duty only, if you address the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y. The reflections of a married woman are not pleasant if she be delicate, rundown, or debilitated. She feels "played out." Her smile and her good spirits have taken flight. It worries her husband as well as herself.

This is the time to build up her strength and cure those weaknesses or ailments which are the cause of her trouble. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores perfect health and strength.

It's a safe remedial agent, an invigorating tonic and nerve which cures all those disorders, weaknesses and derangements incident to womanhood.

ern Ontario. Several correspondents have sent in the dirty white or greenish white caterpillars, with accounts of their serious injuries to fields of oats, barley and wheat. Last summer, too wide spread complaint was made of their injuries to corn. These caterpillars are about 1 1/2 inches long, of a dirty white color, with chestnut colored heads. They are most destructive to crops grown on sod, because, the natural food being grasses, the eggs are laid by the female moths on the meadow grasses the previous year, where the young caterpillars will have a supply of food. Unfortunately, it is almost impossible to suggest any remedy short of plowing up the crop and sowing something else which can be put in later, such as Hungarian millet, buckwheat, or possibly late turnips. The moths from which the caterpillars which are doing so much harm this spring originated are beautifully marked creatures with soft tints of red and gray, which is well illustrated in the accompanying cut. They were so abundant last June and July that frequent letters of complaint were received. They swarmed into houses at night and made themselves obnoxious in many ways, getting into food and dirtying house linen and papers, flying into lamps, and giving great trouble to shopkeepers by requiring frequently to be swept out of the windows.—Dr. Fletcher, in the London Farmer's Advocate.

A STRANGE WORM.

As Yet Nameless, But Farmers' Grass Fields Are Being Destroyed.

If Professor Forbes, the State entomologist, does not come quickly, says the Chicago Tribune, to the rescue with some new-fangled insect powder potent to kill a new-fangled insect, there will not be left standing a blade of grass on farming lands in the southern half of Cook County. The hay crop on a majority of the farms in Worth, Homewood, Blue Island and the stretches that lie between will this year, to a great extent, be a failure.

On the farm of A. S. Piper, of Worth, 140 acres of the finest timothy grass have been eaten bare by the new pest, Frederick Holm of the same place, has had many acres eaten by the invading insects, and they are still at work, while the farmers can do nothing but stand still and see their property de-

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

EIGHTH INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN BOSTON.

A Representative Body of Sunday School

Workers of the Dominion of Canada and the United States—Recommendations of the Executive Committee.

The eighth International Sunday School convention, to be held in Boston on the 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th of this month will be a representative body, comprising 2,684 delegates from the Sunday Schools of the United States and 212 from the Provinces of the Dominion of Canada, and will be entrusted with matters of interdenominational, national and international importance.

The new Tremont Temple (just completed, May 1), Rev. Dr. Lorimer pastor, will be the headquarters of the convention, where most of the meetings will be held, and where the various convention committees will have their headquarters at the time of the convention. This magnificent and modern church building has been constructed with special reference to just such a convention as this. It has several fine auditoriums, all under the same roof, with an aggregate seating capacity of over 5,000; numerous committee rooms; accommodations for light lunches, etc., all of which will be at the disposal of the convention. The main hall will be appropriately decorated, and an opportunity will be given for the display of state, provincial and territorial maps, if they are sent early enough for the committee to arrange them—a week before the opening of the convention.

Park Street Church, which is famous in the annals of Congregationalism, will be used for other meetings. It is on the opposite side of the street from the Tremont Temple, within a stone's throw.

The representation from Canada will be as follows: Alberta, 2 delegates; British Columbia, 5; Manitoba, 8; Newfoundland, 9; New Brunswick, 14; Nova Scotia, 18; Ontario, 86; Prince Edward Island, 11; Quebec, 59—total, 212.

The meetings will be as follows: The Lesson Committee will meet on Friday and Saturday, June 19 and 20, to select the lessons of 1899, and to complete their work; the Executive Committee will hold a prayer and conference meeting on Sunday afternoon, June 21, and will meet for business on Monday morning, June 22.

The convention will meet on Tuesday morning, June 23, in the Temple auditorium, and will hold three sessions each day (afternoon and evening) will be held in Lorimer Hall (in the Temple Building), and a session will be held each day at noon in Park Street Church, at which Mr. Moody will speak. If necessary, a third evening meeting will be held in Park Street Church.

The convention will review the work of the past three years, and will take action for the future. The principal recommendations of the Executive Committee will be as follows:

1.—That the field of the International Convention be extended to include all of North America, including Greenland, Cuba and the other West India Islands.

2.—That the field be divided into dis-

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PROX, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well."

Its work has been before the world for twenty-four years, and while the selections have been criticised and the plan opposed by a few persons, the approval of the multitude of Sunday School workers throughout the world has been plainly manifested. AN ABSOLUTE ANTIDOTE.

Men May Now Defy the Poisonous Repellies Here Pictured.

For the past five years Dr. Calmette of the Pasteur Institute in Paris has bitten by the mad dog. The investigations have led to the discovery of a new anti-venomous serum, an absolute antidote to the poison of any snake. It has also made clear the way in which both venom and serum act upon the system. The new anti-venom acts by neutralizing the poison which has been introduced into the system. The serum is absorbed into the system just as rapidly as the snake venom, and unless paralysis has already set in, will render the poison entirely harmless. Its action is exactly like that of antitoxin in diphtheria, and the serum is procured in a similar way. The blood of a horse which has gradually been accustomed to doses of venom becomes laden with great quantities of the antitoxin of snake poison. A dose of venom sufficient to kill four hundred horses can be supported by such an animal without any ill effects, and the serum from its blood is an absolute antidote to the poison of any venomous snake.

Many more deaths occur from snake bites than is usually supposed. The deadly cobra of India alone kills annually more than 20,000 people. These are the figures gathered by statisticians, and the unreported deaths would are laid by the female in the autumn or later summer, and the caterpillars hatch and pass their growth in the autumn. They pass the winter in a torpid condition, and are ready to attack any young vegetation as soon as it starts in spring. There are many kinds of cutworms, and these differ somewhat in their habits; but most of those which come prominently before the farmer and gardener come out from their hiding places by day and cut off young plants just at the surface of the ground, and then, burrowing a short distance into the soil, devour the cut-off plant at their leisure. There are two remedies which may be successfully used against those which work in this way. One is to wrap a piece of paper around the stem of young plants when putting them out in spring so as to leave a collar an inch above the ground when the plant is set. For tomatoes and cabbages old tomato cans with the tops and bottoms melted off form a perfectly impenetrable barrier to all cutworms. The second plan referred to is known as "poison traps," and this plan is very popular with all who have tried it. It consists of tying up bundles of weeds, grass, clover or any other succulent vegetation, and, having dipped the bundles in a strong mixture of Paris green and water, placing them about at intervals on the infested ground. The cutworms are attracted to them to feed or for shelter, and large numbers are thus easily destroyed. A plan of a similar nature has lately been adopted with good results. It consists of mixing enough Paris green with bran to give it a greenish tinge and then moistening it with enough water to make it adhere slightly. A little of this mixture (about a teaspoonful) is put at short distances along rows of beets or other plants, and is claimed to be very attractive to all kinds of cutworms. It has been used at the base of orchard trees for climbing cutworms, as well as in gardens for the ordinary varieties.

There is a class of cutworms which have rather different habits from the above, because they spend the greater part of their time in the soil, feeding on the roots of grasses, and are sometimes very destructive to the small grains. One of these has attracted a great deal of attention lately in West-while the farmers can do nothing but stand still and see their property destroyed.

The creature which is doing all the damage is a little more than an inch long. It is a worm in shape, its body being pointed. It has longitudinal stripes of light brown and dark brown, the darker stripes being double the width of the others. The front of the head is ginger-colored. It looks much like the cut-worm, excepting that it is darker in shade and is not as thick as the other pest.

Farmers of the infected townships met the other day and discussed the situation, but they could find no name for the devourer, nor could they devise any means for its destruction. They were all agreed it was not a cut-worm.

John Holm said yesterday he had driven all over the country lying about Worth, Homewood and Blue Island, and everywhere the worm had leveled the growing grass.

"We don't know what to do about it," he said. "It has never been seen here before. The hay crop is doomed. The creature prefers timothy to any other kind. In a field which has timothy, orchard and lawn grasses mixed the insects have just begun their work. For several yards the timothy is eaten, while the other grasses are left untouched, though the creatures will begin over again eventually and eat the inferior growth. The loss amounts to thousands of dollars already, and I see nothing ahead but the total destruction of the crop."

The common cut-worm does its work at the roots of the grass, while this insect bites the blades off about one inch from the ground."

The Strawberry-Raspberry.

The strawberry-raspberry is a remarkable fruit, which like many novel and valuable fruits, comes from Japan.

JAPANESE STRAWBERRY-RASPBERRY.

It is said to be a hybrid between the strawberry and raspberry. By the habit of the plant, a reproduction of which was taken from a plant in bearing, it will be seen its habit is that of neither the fruits named, but a compromise of the two: it being a spreading, low growing bush, producing its fruit in branching clusters of three or more at the ends of the stems. In form and appearance of fruit it is about as good a combination of a strawberry and red raspberry as one could well imagine—in size about midway between the two and the form of neither, but half-way between each, being formed of globules or drupes resembling a raspberry, but in color a crimson glowing in brilliancy the most beautiful strawberry. It is said to be entirely hardy—Farm and Home.

2.—That the field be divided into districts, and competent persons be secured as district field workers or superintendents, as soon as the necessary funds are secured.

3.—That the superintendent of the work of organization among the colored people shall have one assistant now, and two assistants when needed, provided the necessary funds are secured.

4.—That a general secretary shall be chosen, and a secretary to the chairman of the Executive Committee be appointed, whose whole time shall be given to the work.

5.—That a Finance Committee be appointed, consisting of well-known business men, permission being given to select some persons who are not members of the Executive Committee, if desired.

6.—That the amount to be contributed by states, provinces and territories be placed at $12,000 per annum for three years, and that an effort be made to secure an additional amount of at least $12,000 per annum for three years by individual subscriptions, the committee believing that $25,000 per annum is needed for this work.

7.—That the Ninth International Convention, to be held in 1899, be held in the South, provided an invitation is received from a city with suitable accommodations for the meetings, and located where there are sufficient railroad facilities.

8.—That the annual meeting of the Executive Committee, held in each of the years except the convention year, is of sufficient importance to demand the attendance of the members, and that the states, provinces and territories be requested to make provision for their expenses whenever it is necessary to secure their attendance.

9.—That arrangements be made to secure, if possible, a large delegation from the United States and Canada to the World's Third Convention, to be held in or near London, England, July 6-11, 1897.

In addition to the recommendations of the committee, one other matter of great importance will attract attention. We shall at this meeting elect the fifth Lesson Committee, to serve in place of the present committee, and to select the lessons for the years 1900-1905.

The importance of the work entrusted clans, and the reported deaths would probably swell the total very greatly. In colder climates, where people wear thicker clothes, and the snakes are not so deadly, deaths from snake bites are comparatively rare. They are, however, numerous enough to make an absolute antidote very welcome. Europe possesses fewer poisonous snakes than any other continent, yet the yearly total of deaths caused by serpents is quite large even there. In two departments of France 321 people were bitten by snakes in a period of five years, sixty-two cases being fatal.

Dr. Calmette is sending his antivenom all over the world to be distributed among physicians. The Pasteur Institute in Chicago will be the distributing point for the United States. There is no known chemical which by injection into the system can be depended upon to nullify the effects of snake venom. Chloride of lime and chloride of gold are the most efficacious, but their action is very uncertain. If over half an hour has elapsed after the bite they are always useless. The antivenomous serum will neutralize the poison two hours after the bite, and in the case of the less poisonous snakes after a much longer interval.

For many years scientists have been trying to find out the exact chemical nature of snake poison. So far they have been unsuccessful. It has been proved to consist of three distinct substances, but nobody knows very accurately what they are.

The first substance is said to be peptone, which has a very slow action and produces ulceration locally. The second is some virulent matter which causes great infiltration of blood when injected into the tissues; the third is of an albuminous nature, and is not apparently poisonous in itself. Boiling heat destroys the poisonous qualities of snake venom. When concentrated by removing the albumen and retaining the salts, the residuum is forty times more poisonous than the normal venom. It is then the most powerful poison known, and enough of it could be put into a thimble to kill 25,000 people.

The only living creatures known which are proof against snake poison are snakes themselves. Pigeons possess great power of resistance to the poison, and so does the mongoose of India, which feeds upon venomous snakes. A mongoose, though not so big as a rabbit, will only succumb to a dose of poison large enough to kill eight rabbits. Dr. Chalmette had six mongooses at his little menagerie in the town of Lille, France, and he discovered that the animal kills the terrible cobra and escapes injury only by its wonderful quickness, and is not proof against the bite of its dangerous prey.

Of all the different snakes collected by Dr. Chalmette the venom is almost identical. It only differs in the degree of virulence, the venom being more diluted in some snakes than in others. Thus only one antidote is required for all snake bites, but the amount injected must vary with the intensity of the venom of the snake and the quantity infused in the wound. A dose which would destroy the venom of a rattlesnake would be too weak for a cobra and some of the deadly snakes of tropical countries.

Local Customs.

The late Sir John A. Macdonald was once at a reception, and a bishop from Belgium was present. As the party was being escorted by a body of men in Highland costume, the foreign bishop, seeing the bare legs and kilts, asked why these men were without trousers. "It is just a local custom," gravely replied Sir John. "In some places people take off their hats as a mark of honor to distinguished guests; here they take off their trousers."

CONCLUSIVE PROOF.

From a Well Known Citizen.

"My daughter Polly, has for more than a year been troubled with severe symptoms of kidney disease. She had constant and acute pains in her back. The pain in her head was fearful and almost unendurable. It frequently prevented her from attending school, and she found study at home practically impossible. She had no appetite, and did not sleep well. The pain was very severe around her heart and she was much troubled with fluttering and palpitation. She was completely worn out in body and mind, and drooped all the time. Her mother and myself became seriously alarmed as she was constantly getting worse.

"Last July my daughter Sarah, a teacher in the Public School at Kingsville, Ont., came home to spend her vacation, and finding her sister in such a distressing and dangerous condition, said, I am taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they are doing me much good. I have a box with me and will divide with Polly, which she did. By the time Polly had finished the half box her improvement in health was so marked, that I procured more from Mr. Fraleigh's drug store.

"Her full restoration to health and spirits was rapid and continuous. She has now none of her former dangerous, painful and distressing kidney troubles. She eats and sleeps well, and for more than a month has enjoyed the most vigorous health. Since she commenced taking the pills, and has so much faith in them since they restored her to full health that she wants me to keep six boxes in the house all the time, in case they should be needed for her or for any other child. Her cure has been so wonderful she thinks they will cure any complaint. If the pills had cost $10.00 a box, I would not have begrudged the money. The restoration of my daughter to full health and strong girlhood, from her former serious sickness, has made her mother, myself and daughter a happy family.

"I make this sworn statement with the full approbation of my wife and daughter, voluntarily and without any inducement whatever, to show the gratitude my daughter, wife and myself feel for the wonderful cure wrought by the Doan's Kidney Pills. We have not the least doubt that her trying the pills just at the time she did saved us a large doctor's bill, as she was all but sick at the time. I am sixty-two years of age, a carpenter by trade, have been a resident of St. Mary's for forty years, and am well known, and I make this solemn declaration believing the same to be true, and knowing the same to have the same effect as an oath, and according to the Act respecting Judicial Oaths 1894.

Seriously Injured.
Mrs. Shirley, who left Napanee recently for Chicago, was struck by a cable car on the 23rd inst. and frightfully injured. Mrs. Webster received a letter from Miss Shirley on Monday giving particulars of the ac- cident and an account of the injuries sustain- ed by her mother. It appears Mrs. Shirley while dismounting from a cable car was caught by another car and carried about 30 feet. Her collar bone was broken, both ankles were sprained and her forehead was so badly cut that the doctors in attendance found it necessary to take a number of stitches in the wound. The old lady's hands were terrible torn also and it is feared she is injured internally. Mrs. Shirley is about seventy years of age and the accident will no doubt cripple her for life. The accident was due to the culpable negligence of the car driver, who neglected to ring the alarm while passing the car which Mrs. Shirley had taken. Mrs. Shirley and her daughter left here a few days ago to visit Mrs. Walker, of Chicago. It was Miss Shirley's intention to take a trip out to the Pacific Coast, but

Good News Travels as Fast as Bad.
News spreads quickly, and when a good thing is found its merits are soon learned by every one far or near. This accounts for the fast growing popularity of Fibre Chamois as an interlining which makes outdoor work possible in any weather. The first man who realized its wind and rain proof warmth quickly told his friends so that they too might enjoy this inexpen- sive comfort. It might seem impossible that this fabric so light in weight and with- out bulk should furnish so much healthful warmth; but when you realize that its merit lies in being a complete non-con- ductor of heat or cold, you understand why a layer of it through your clothing gives such warmth—it not only keeps out all cold but keeps in the natural heat of the body.

Wedding Bells Again.
Another very pretty wedding was cele- brated on Tuesday morning last at 9:30 in St. Patrick's R. C. Church, by the Rev. Father Hogan. The contracting parties were Miss Jervel Conroy, one of Napanee's best known and popular young ladies and Mr. Harold R. Colton, of Pembroke. The bride looked charming in a gown of French material of blue and gold, and a large pic- ture hat of which Chiffon and white tips caught up with pretty French roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. P. H. Colton, of Pembroke and the bride was assisted by Miss Nellie Whelan, cousin of the bride, who was also handsomely attired in lovely pale blue silk and looked charming. After the ceremony the wed- ding party drove to the home of the bride's father on Bridge st. where a sumptuous breakfast was partaken of after which the happy couple took the noonday train amidst showers of rice for Montreal and points east and will take up their residence in Pembroke on their return. The presents were numerous and costly.

His Annual Visit.
"Old Sandy Johnston" floated in upon us last Friday. It is now well on to eight months since "Sandy" lightened our sanctum with his presence and regaled us with the tale of his misfortunes and mean- derings. Time has wrought a few changes in Sandy since his last visit, and we regret to say they are not for the better. He is still the "poor unfortunate" who has been reduced to dire extremity through no fault of his own. The failure of a large printing office in Toronto last week, unchronicled by the daily press owing to the pressure of election of matter, forced him to again take to the road. All his surplus hard earned cash was held in trust by the foreman of the office and when the crash came poor Sandy was forced to pawn his evening suit, tooth pick shoes and beaver, and attire himself in an abbreviated over- coat, baggy kneed trousers, and a slouch hat, a trifle the worse for wear. Whiskey, "Sandy" assured us, had nothing to do with his present misfortune and his breath and the rubricosity of his organ of smell boreocular evidence to the truth of the state- ment. "Sandy's" whiskers are still with al- though lack of trimming, and the wild winds have played ad havoc with them. It was early morn when "Sandy" struck our office and by evening he had bid adieu to his temperance vows and principles and had journeyed perilously near the border of inebriety. He visited the other offices

A GRAND DEMONSTRATION

THE CIRCUIT RACE A HUGE SUCCESS.

Large attendance and a well satisfied crowd. A good name of Base Ball.—The Pictou Band furnished excellent music.

First Day.
Canada's natal-day was fittingly cele- brated in Napanee on Wednesday, and the demonstration will go down as one of the most successful in the history of the Napa- nee Driving Park. Excursion trains brought in large crowds from neighboring points on the G.T.R. and B. of Q. Rail- ways, and the steamers "Ella Ross," "Nellie Guthbert," "Verona," "Deseronto" and "Reindeer" brought in their full quota of excursionists from points along the bay. The Pictou Band ran an excursion from that town and enlivened the proceedings throughout the day with numerous ex- cellent musical selections. A large number drove in from nearby places and by 12 o'clock the town was all agog with people. The energetic committee, H. G. Milling, G. Bogart, G. H. Williams and J. L. Boyes are deserving of great credit for the excellent manner in which the demon- stration was managed. Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Thos. E. Anderson, the indefatigable secretary, for his share in the work, and altogether the Napanee Driving Park Association has just reason to congratulate itself on the success that attended its efforts.

The Demonstration was held on the beautiful grounds of the Napanee Driving Park, of which there is none superior and few to equal it in the Province of Ontario. It possesses a half-mile track that is con- ceded to be the fastest in Eastern Ontario and its shade trees and situation cannot be surpassed.

The races marked the opening of the Midland Trotting Circuit and were close and exciting throughout. The 2:27 race was the tamest of the lot, there being but three horses entered and "Furioso" proved an easy winner.

The 2:50 race was a dandy and it was nip and tuck between J. H. B. and Kitty Carver for the second place in the second heat, but in the third J. H. B. brought up the tail end of the procession. Nellie P. is a speedy mare but seems unable to hold her feet. Indirect was distanced in the first heat, but as the winner of the heat was a pro- tected horse he was allowed to start in the second. "St John," the winner of the race, is a ringer it is claimed. One man, who appeared to know, asserted that "St John" has a record of 2:16 and as he was prepared to back up this assertion with the "long green" there were none to say him nay.

The 3 mile running race proved a sur- prise to our local sports, who backed "Tom Nye" heavy to win. He put up a game fight for first but Livery Boy proved too speedy for him. He got a bad start in the second or otherwise he might have won the heat. He didn't win however and quite a number of our local sports went broke in consequence.

The 3 mile running race was a good one and "Ab" the darkey, whose shining "mug" was so long a familiar adjunct of the Royal Hotel stable carried Prince Charlie to victory with considerable margin to the good. "Ab" might have been a good jockey once upon a time but we feel inclined to give Stewart's speedy col. all the credit for winning Wednesday's race. Dr. D. L. Dalmage, of Belleville, acted as starter to the entire satisfaction of all. The following is a summary of Wednesday's races:—

The Royal Templars of Temperance moonlight excursion per Steamer Merritt on Monday evening proved a highly enjoyable and successful affair. The night was a trifle chilly and this no doubt kept quite a number from attending. A goodly number boarded the boat at Deseronto and swelled the receipts so that it proved a paying venture for the Templars. At Glenora dancing was indulged in, the music being furnished by Vance's orchestra. The excursion arrived home about 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Bell's Majority 87.

Addington is a large constituency and a difficult one to secure returns from and it was not until Tuesday that the exact result was known. On Tuesday afternoon the two candidates, Messrs. Dawson and Bell, and their friends congregated in the office of Mr. W. G. Wilson, Returning Officer, and the ballot boxes for the various subdivisions were opened, and after a summing up the Returning Officer declared John W. Majority for Bell, 87.

By the defeat of Mr. Dawson Addington loses an able representative and parliament a useful member. During his term in the House he forged rapidly to the front and was prominent in the councils of his party. He was defeated but he has the consolation of knowing that he fell fighting in a good cause and one that triumphed at the poll.

in need of the services of such a distinguished and accomplished member of the fourth-estate. Sandy's voice was a trifle husky on Saturday morning when he called upon us to bid good bye before leaving town. He prefaced his leave taking with a modest request for a couple of dimes, and as we did not reciprocate our parting was not of a cordial nature. Napanee District Convention.

The District Convention of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in the Western Methodist church, Napanee, on Thursday, June 18th. The morning session opened at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Gibson, district organizer, presiding. Mrs. Edwards conducted the scripture reading and prayer, after which Mrs. Platt, branch secretary, was introduced. The reports from Auxiliaries, Circles and Bands were very gratifying. A talk on "Difficulties of Auxiliary Work" by Mrs. A. C. Parks, was followed by a paper from Mrs. Detlor, of Hawley, on "The benefits of regular attendance." Mrs. (Rev.) Crossley led the consecration service and many testimonies were given of the benefits derived from belonging to the W. M. S. The meeting adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock. The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. Casey. A paper was read by Mrs. Edwards on the "Watch Tower." Then came a paper on "Personal responsibility" by Miss McCullough. An address by Miss Smith, Odessa, on "Do our offerings represent self-denial," and a paper by Mrs. Valleau, "Is our Auxiliary work done at the expense of other church work," both merit special mention. A greeting from the Presbyterian Auxiliary was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Peck, showing the spirit of harmony and oneness of purpose in the work of Missions Mrs. Hawley, Bath, read a paper on "The work of Mission Circles and Bands." Miss Fraiger, Picton, gave an address to the "girls" on "Missionary work" and the importance of beginning in girlhood, which is a great stimulus to active Mission work. The Easter service on "systematic giving" was read, and Mrs. Platt made it quite clear that "tithing" is the scriptural mode of giving. It was decided by vote that the secretaries bring the matter before each Auxiliary and find how many are in favor of that system. The meeting was interspersed throughout with good music. After singing "God be with you till we meet again" the convention was brought to a close.

Fitting glasses is a profession of itself requiring a knowledge of the laws of light, the possibilities of lenses, the construction and working of the human eyes and the ailments which imperfections of the eye may cause. My optician, A. F. Chinnick, has duly qualified himself in these particulars, holding two advance diplomas from the Ontario Optical Institute, and the Optical Institute of Canada respectively, which can only be had after taking a very high stand in the final exams. Therefore as the only full graduate in this county, he claims a share of the public patronage. Already he has pleased numbers of people with perfect fitting glasses. All eyes tested free of charge. That the electors of Addington voted against their own best interest in defeating G. W. Dawson they will be free to admit now that the elections are over and a Liberal administration returned to power. In Mr. Dawson they had a representative who was a credit to the riding and one who was looked upon as a coming man. Many honest men, who allowed themselves to be carried away by the race and religious cries raised against Mr. Dawson through his leader will regret their notes to-day. All the influence of the P.P.A. and Orange organizations was used against Mr. Dawson and in support of a man who acknowledged as his leader the arch boddler and coercionists, Sir Charles Tupper. The cry "don't vote for a French Roman Catholic for premier" did yeoman service for Bell, and there is plenty of evidence that money induced many a wavering voter to mark his ballot for Bell. Mr. Dawson made a plucky fight and conducted a clean and honest campaign, and the fact that he kept Bell's boasted majority of 500 down to 87 speaks volumes for his ability. Mr. Dawson stands higher in the estimation of the electors of Addington to day than ever before.

The base ball match between the Granites of Kingston and the Belleville base ball club was a good exhibition of the game. Belleville lost the match by putting Thompson in the box for the first two innings. He proved an easy mark and was batted freely. Kingston piled up 3 runs in the first and 4 in the second of his delivery. In the third he was sent to right field and Tuttle took his place. He proved a puzzle to the Kingston men who could not connect with his curves worth a cent. The Granites only succeeded in making one run off Tuttle, and that one was by an error in fielding. Sullivan, the Kingston pitcher, was hit pretty freely, but received excellent support in the field, and Belleville only succeeded in making 6 runs off his delivery. Belleville has a number of "dubs" in the field who are neither ornamental or useful. They have several men who might possibly stop a ball providing it was coming their way and hit them, but as a general rule they were successful in evading the sphere. Crewes, Belleville's catcher, is a "peach" of a player and put up an errorless game. The fielding of the Belleville team was ragged throughout and Chickey McRae, at third base, was a shining example of "how not to do it." The following is the score by innings:

Kingston 3 4 0 0 0 1 0 0 x-8
Earned runs, Belleville 4, Kingston 3.

Mr. Geo. E. Deroche, of Deseronto, made an excellent and impartial referee, and his decisions gave general satisfaction. The match was for a purse of $100.

NOTES.

The attendance at the races on Wednesday while not so large as at former demonstrations way away above the average, and very large considering the counter attractions in Tweed and Belleville.

Drunks were conspicuous by their absence, and although there were a few who celebrated too much for their own good they had "horse sense" enough to prevent them from making an exhibition of themselves.

Notwithstanding the fact that two young men in town paid $15 for the exclusive privilege of selling score cards for the races the Star printing office, though well aware of this fact, got out score cards and hawked them around town. The enterprising aspirant for Parliamentary honors even wanted to distribute his score cards on the grounds, but of course was promptly and deservedly "sat upon." The racing committee will take steps to prevent a recurrence of the like at future races. When the "Independent Candidate" found he could not sell his score cards he authorized his agents to give them away.

Several lively "scraps" occurred during the day but on the whole the crowd was a very orderly one.

Picton has just reasons to feel proud of her excellent musical organization, the Citizens Brass Band.

The "Nyes" are humorous "cusses" but when "Tom Nye" failed to cross the tape first the sports took the joke unkindly.

The bookmakers did not do a very thriving business but what little they did do came their way pretty well.

The refreshment booths on the grounds did a thriving business. Truly 'tis better to run a soft drink booth at the Park than an ice cream parlor down town.

It requires a fine sense of discrimination to pick out the winning horse. Some "straight tips" are a delusion and a snare.

J. H. B. showed up well on Wednesday. The only dissatisfied man in town was the fellow who came in early and bet on the wrong horse.

Wednesday was the 30th Anniversary of our blessed Dominion. May its shadow never grow less. God Save the Queen and the Dominion of Canada.

You can't go much by a name. The 2.50 class made better time than the 2.27 class. The Picton Band sang a chorus, with band accompaniment, which was excellently rendered and greatly appreciated. The various stores in town were well patronized.

There were 5,310 votes polled in Adding ton on the 23 ult. Mr. Bell alone polled within 321 votes of the total vote polled in Lennox. Addington is very sparsely settled so our readers can form an opinion from the vote, of the extent of our neighboring constituency. A redistribution is badly needed.

On Saturday afternoon at Odessa, while a baseball match was in progress between the Alerts of Kingston and the Odessas, a very bad accident occurred. A young man named Kearns, while playing for Odessa, was struck behind one of the ears with the ball and rendered unconscious. A physician tried to revive him, but after a couple of hours' work had failed. He was unconscious when the players from Kingston left for home.

The rule of distraints for taxes recently made legal by the Ontario Assembly are much more just than the old ones. Under the old law the municipality could seize effects on the premises in question, no matter whether belonging to a tenant in possession when the taxes were levied, or to a tenant who had moved in, in ignorance of the fact that the landlord had not paid the taxes. The new law provides that the municipality cannot levy upon the goods of a tenant coming into a house after taxes are in default, and only upon the goods of a tenant in possession when taxes fall due, to the amount that such tenants may owe. Its operation will relieve tenants who innocently rent premises, of the taxes which are in arrears, from being sold out by the tax collectors for other people's debts.

Simple Precautions Insure Complete Victory.

A Child Can Use Diamond Dyes Successfully.

When using the world-famed Diamond Dyes for home dyeing, use fresh, clean, soft water; hard and impure water will mar the beauty of the shades. Wooden, earthen or enameled vessels are best.

Old articles before dyeing should be well washed with soap and water to remove dirt or grease, and rinsed in hot water, and dyed while damp. When any particular shade is wanted, the dye should be tested by dyeing a small piece of the stuff.

If these few precautions are observed you will be able to produce richer, brighter and more lasting colors than any steam dyeing house can give you. Be sure your dealer gives you the Diamond Dyes; they are the only warranted dyes in the world.

All the Others in the Wrong.

Colonel Page, who commanded a Pennsylvania regiment in the civil war, often used to tell laughingly his first experiences in marching the raw men who had enlisted for the war of the rebellion. He was given command of a company, and, after some preparatory drill, led them down a street in Philadelphia. They marched as well as could be expected for several blocks, when suddenly from the ranks rang out a loud, "Halt!"

The men wavered, and then came to a full stop.

"Who gave that order?" thundered the enraged Captain.

"Potts, sir! Potts," a dozen voices called, and every eye turned on Potts, a stout German, a butcher by trade.

"What do you mean, sir, by giving that order?" demanded the Captain.

"Well, sir, I've been trying for two blocks to get this company to keep step with me, and they wouldn't do it. So I stopped them to begin all over again."

Colonel Page's anecdote suggests the story of the old Scotchwoman who called on her minister to say that she and her brother John had decided that all the members of the Scottish Kirk believed false doctrine, and would be lost, and that John and she would in future worship at home by themselves.

"I am very glad," said the minister drily, "that there are two of you who are right and will be saved."

"Aweel, I'm no sayin'!" said Jean, shaking her head. "Times I hae ma doots o' John."—Youth's Companion.

An Impecunious Rothschild.

Baron Rothschild was once caught in a predicament that many people experience daily, and that is getting into a conveyance of some kind, and then not having the money to pay the fare.

The driver of the omnibus into which Rothschild entered demanded his fare, and the Baron, feeling in his pockets, discovered that he had no change. The driver was very angry. "What did you get in for, if you had no money?"

"I am Baron Rothschild," exclaimed the great capitalist, "and there is my card."

The driver scornfully tossed the card away. "Never heard of you before," said he, "and don't want to hear of you again. What I want is your fare."

The banker was in great haste. "Look here, I've an order for a million," he said; "give me the change." And he proffered a coupon for that amount.

The driver stared and the passengers laughed. Fortunately a friend of the Baron entered the omnibus at the moment, and taking in the situation, immediately paid the fare. The driver, realizing his mistake, and feeling remorseful, said to the Baron:

"If you want ten francs, sir, I don't mind lending them to you on my own account."—Harper's Round Table.
